The Fatwalk is the primary project in the realisation of the Lea River Park, connection between the Thames and the Olympic Park, and enabling a route between the Thames and London's Green Belt. The first phase of works are directed at addressing physical severances and obstructions to create the backbone of the future park. These early pieces of infrastructure are regarded as catalysts for converting what is currently land used for gas storage, sewage pumping and transport infrastructure into diverse park spaces: turning what is an industrial backwater into the foreground of a new public space which people can start to access, use and enjoy.

General Gordon Square and Beresford Square, Woolwich town centre, are set to be transformed as part of Greenwich Council's ongoing programme of major regeneration of the town. This includes the creation of a new public square as part of the Love Lane development and a new public space in the Royal Arsenal. Works are complete on the new super crossing on Beresford Street, which will improve pedestrian access between Beresford Square and the Royal Arsenal. The transformation of the squares will coincide with the launch of the Greenwich Waterfront Transit (GWT), a new and improved, dedicated bus route between North Greenwich Tube station and Abbey Wood. These projects represent an important element of Greenwich's contribution to the regeneration of the wider Thames Gateway.

LONDON BOROUGH OF EALING
LEAD OFFICER: PAT HAYES
DESIGN TEAM: 5TH STUDIO
STATUS: SCOPING & OUTLINE DESIGN
DELIVERY DATE: 2012

North Acton Station, on the edge of Park Royal, currently suffers from poor access and visibility – hidden behind a range of buildings, lying below street level, and approached by isolated footpaths. The project will provide a new public space which enables a direct and generous connection between the station and the street, and helps to address a wider open space deficiency. The space aims to exploit its unique topographical and landscape context – using the level change between station and street to help establish a distinctive character which relates to the borrowed landscape of the railway embankments beyond.

This competition winning project aims to reinstate a lost civic space, vibrant but flexible at the heart of the Hammersmith Community. Our proposal provides opportunity for evolution and transformation beyond the permanent framework through community events, arts and cultural activities. The square establishes an appropriate setting for the unveiling of the Town Hall's northern facade and wider King Street Regeneration proposals, with a design that is elegant and fitting whilst allowing the listed building to be the centrepiece. This has been achieved through the creation of a contemporary space that is visually exciting both from within and from above.
